BIOMAX models include patent-pending R+ | NIR+ spectral output featuring the seven wavelengths of 480nm, 630nm, 660nm, 810nm, 830nm, 850nm, and 1060nm.

This spectral output has been perfected for human therapy use by emitting an output that matches as close as possible to the body's own spectral absorption coefficient. By efficiently emitting as close as possible to what the body will absorb within the studied therapeutic "action zones", we can maximize the production of ATP and mitochondrial stimulation.

This is the science of red/NIR light therapy, which only PlatinumLED has mastered.

Here's a simple breakdown of how Red-Light Therapy helps your body recover and rejuvenate from the inside out.

01 The Powerhouses of The Cell

Within our cells, we have small structures called mitochondria. Much like the photosynthesis process in plants, these structures soak up light and convert its energy into cellular fuel.

02 ATP Fuel Boost

When red light shines through the body, it interacts with the mitochondria, stimulating the production of Adenosine Triphosphate (ATP), our bodies' primary energy currency.

03 Improved Cellular Function

So, increased ATP production means there's more energy within each cell. A cell with high energy is better able to perform its specialized functions, repair itself, and replicate.

04 The Ripple Effect

This process stimulates collagen production, improves blood circulation, and reduces inflammation, causing a ripple effect that enhances overall health and contributes to faster healing.
